LOCAL MATTERS.

Death of Mr. Parker Campbell. A telegram received in this city yesterday from Jacksonville, Fla., conveyed the TENTION of the ladies to our very complete stock Parker Campbell, one of our most esteemed citizens. Major Campbell, though of Virginia descent, was born in Washington, Penn., and was the son of Parker Campbell, Esq., a brilliant and widely-known lawyer of the school of Judge Baldwin and other illustrious legal minds who orna-LITHANDSOME PARASOLS AT AT-TRACTIVE PRICES.

After taking the college course at Washington College, in his native town, Major Campbell pursued his studies both in Indiana and Ohio, finishing his education THE ELEGANT ASSORTMENT OF in the latter State, under the precep-torship TELAMBREQUIN FRINGES IN of the celebrated Dr. McCany.

Always frail, however, he was debarred the privilege of embracing a profession, and at a comparatively early age became interested in the manufacture of glass in Wheeling, the introduction of the art of making crown glass into that city being due to his energy, enterprise, and perseverance. After devoting several years to this business, he became engaged in various mercantile operations, which lead to extensive travel and acquaintances lines of every describable goods for the coming season. Company. His history as a business-man since he became one of us calls for little comment. Making a new home at an advanced age and in delicate health, he formed few new ties in the way of intimate friendship; yet to those who enjoyed that close communion he was the truest and staunchest of friends. He was a man of most decided convictions, but no feeling, no personal wrong, could swerve him from the highest standard of justice. A granitic integrity characterized his every action, whether in business or private relations, and while intolerant of meanness, his high-strung sensitive nature never lacked in charity towards a fault.

A devoted husband and father, a hospita ble but unostentatious host, he threw around the social circle in his own home a charm that few who have ever felt its influence can easily forget. It was here ciation of the beautiful, and the derest, most sympathetic, and noblest traits of his character asserted themselves and stamped him in his true light. Major Campbell was about sixty-eight or sixty-nine years of age, and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Channing M. Bolton and Mrs. J. L. Schoolcraft. The funeral will take e from the residence of Mr. Schooleraft on Thursday. Due notice of the hour will

The Petersburg Railroad Bridge. The Richmond and Petersburg Railroad Company are moving forward with great energy in the matter of securing rail com-munication with the south side of the river. President F. R. Scott has had the advice and assistance not only of his own able corps and the railroad-men of Richmond, but of many others. Yesterday a survey of the Tredegar bridge was made with the view of adapting that structure to temporary use. But the difficulties were found insurmountable. When the Peters-burg Railroad bridge was standing trains arriving at the Byrd-Street depot and the coaches running down to the Belle Isle station to do their switching had to run on the bridge. That was one, and but one, of the difficulties presented. All that the company can do—and that it has proceeded to do—is to build a trestle bridge across James river, said bridge to be supplanted by an iron bridge as quickly as possible. There will be at least five benches of trestling from pier to pier. The no one need have a fear of danger in cross-LYDIA E. Meanwhile the railroad company are bent upon improving their transfer facilisent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of ties. Passengers are now landed at Elba and are conveyed in vehicles across the Free bridge around to the Manchester depot. The company are at work bringing their track down from the Manchester landing to a point near to the Man-chester end of the Free bridge. With nothing to hinder the work, that will be accomplished in a few days. That will considerably lessen the transfer distance. It is in contemplation to lessen it still further by running cars down on the trestle near the Byrd-Street depot and constructing a platform from the depot buildings to the track on the trestle, where passengers will be landed and take vehicles for the Free-Bridge station of the company. This done, the transfer distance will be but a little more than the width of James river.

The Committee on County, City, and Town Organization of the Senate yesterday reported with amendments (comprising City Clerk and Engineer of the James River Improvement) Senate bill to amend and reënact section 28 of chapter 4 of the charter of the city of Richmond, so as to provide that the City Engineer, City Attorney, Superintendent of the Gar-Works, Superintendent of the Water-Works, Superintendent of the Almshouse, Chief of the Fire Department, Chief of Police, Police Leavester, of the School Pour lice Justice, Secretary of the School Board, Clerk of the First Market, Clerk of the Second Market, Gas Inspector, City Clerk, and Engineer of the James River Improve-ment, shall all be elected by the people. THE BUSINESS FOR WHICH THIS EXTRA SES-SION WAS CONVENED. Mr. Hurt offered the following: Whereas this extraordinary session of the General Assembly was convened by the Executive for the purpose, primarily, of enacting such pressing public legislation as the needs of the Commonwealth demand:

therefore be it Resolved, That the Senate of Virginia. in response to the motives which actuated the Governor, irrespective of party, will this day suspend the rules and take up for consideration Senate bill No. 2, entitled consideration Senate bill No. 2, entitled a bill appropriating the public revenues for the fiscal years 1881-'2-'3, and continue the consideration thereof from day to day until said bill is perfected and passed.

On motion of Mr. Diggs, of Lynchburg, the resolution was amended as follows:

After the word "demand" insert "stated in his message as follows:

in his message as follows:
"In obedience to the necessities of the case, in presence of the fact that the General Assembly has adjourned without providing for the expenses of government, and leaving the revenues to be collected under a tax-bill enacted several years since, and in many particulars inapplicable to the present condition of the Commonwealth, I have reconvened your body in extra ses-Mr. Riddleberger said he did not pro-

"I am going to oppose the appropriation bill. That is no threat. It is a fact—a part of party tactics. It is just as much our duty to resort to these methods as yours. Unless we are permitted to vote upon these measures that appropriation bill will be recommitted, and we will take from it every dollar and cent of the appropriation to pay the debts you have not paid for six years. You ask us to pass the appropriation bill to make good your party defaults,"

Mr. Hurt said: I have been induced to offer this resolution because it is, the duty of the bill, saying that the farmers needed the protection asked.

"Strike out the allowances entire from the bill!" Such threats have no effect upon me whatever. If the majority think upon me whatever. If the majority think proper to send the bill back to committee for such purpose, let them do it. It was not, as the Senator says, any "filmsy, ganzy patriotism" that impelled me to attempt to bring this matter up for consideration, but simply to discharge the duty imposed upon me by the call of the Govrnor as set forth in his official paper.

This bill has the precedence.
Mr. Riddleberger: The Clerk can make a statement whether it has precedence. Let the Clerk say whether you are correct. Mr. Hurt: I know bills from the House ome up for action sooner than bills from of such legislation.

Mr. Hurt: The appropriation bill was reported before this bill came here. It has been here the longest, and ought to have first consideration.

The Clerk (continuing): This bill was reported from the committee on the 22d, the other (judiciary bill) came over on the 23d from the House of Delegates.

Mr. Hurt: You see this bill was here Mr. Riddleberger : I haven't denied that, but it hasn't precedence.

Let us look at the matter in a business point of view. If you take up this bill you can perfect it, vote on it, and then go on with the judicial bill and others. You come with your little railroad bills and bother, but when a prime and important matter is here there is delay.

Mr. Riddleberger: Yes, yours this morning to sell church property. [He was alluding to the fact that Mr. Hurt had tried to have a church bill placed on the Riddlenerger objected.)

The undersigned members of the House of Delegates most earnestly protest against tled an act "to create the office of general commissioner of sales, &c.," was under consideration, for the following reasons:

The Speaker of the House had previously ruled that when any bill was on its second ruled that when any bill was on its second reading it was to be read through for information, and then it was to be read by sections for amendments to each section. The said ruling of the Speaker was accepted by the House and acquiesced in as the rule to govern the order of business. When said bill was upon its second reading, after it had been read through, and was being read by sections for amendments, and an amendment to the first section had been adopted, and then an amendment having been offered by Mr. Frazier, of Rockbridge, to the second section, objection was made by several members on the ground that they desired to offer further amendments to the first sec-tion, and it was stated by the Chair (Mr. Farr, of Fairfax) that after Mr. Frazier's day at 1 o'clock, and the second on Thursday at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Newberry thought that the substitute was not germane.

The Chair (Mr. Wood) said that the subject-matter was the order of business in the Senate, and the substitute was in order.

The substitute of Mr. Riddleberger was rejected—that a conviction for petit largeny before a justice of the peace could not deprive a man of his vote.

The opponents contended that persons convicted of petit lareeny were distranchised by a constitutional provision. The question was whether this provision ap-plied to convictions before a justice of the peace. They contended that it did, because such a conviction was equivalent to a conviction in a court of record, for the reason that the accused party had the peremptory right of appeal.

The question being on agreeing to the amendment, was put and decided in the FIRE YESTERDAY.—Yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in the third story of the drugstore of Dr. W. H. Scott, corner of Franklin and Seventeenth streets. An alarm from Box 2 brought the Fire Department promptly to the ground, and the finanes were quickly extinguished by a plag stream. The room in which the fire occurred was used for storage purposes, and it is thought that a stray spark got in through an open window and ignited a lot of loose straw which was lying on the floor. The damage, which was principally by water, does not exceed $300, and will not necessitate a suspension of business.
